£30.3 MILLION A DAY.

How UK billionaire wealth skyrocketed while the rest of the country flatlined.

The £11 Billion Divergence

UK billionaire wealth grew by an average of £30.3 million per day, accumulating roughly £11 billion in a single year, while the broader economy barely moved forward.

We Are Not In This Together

While wealth at the very top explodes, the economic foundation of the country is crumbling.

A System Rigged Against Work

The modern economy ruthlessly taxes labor while rewarding those who simply own assets.

The Working Professional

The Reality: Works 40+ hours a week. Gets poorer as inflation outpaces wages.

The Tax: Up to 50% (Income Tax + National Insurance)

The Billionaire

The Reality: Generates passive wealth just by owning things.

The Tax: Less than 1% effective tax rate on asset growth.

We tax nurses at 50% and billionaires at 1%.

Where Is The Money Going?

Wealth isn't trickling down.
It is being vacuumed up.

The working class pays an ever-increasing portion of their salary just to exist, transferring their labor value directly into the portfolios of the ultra-rich.

The 2% Solution

We don't need to reinvent the wheel. We just need to tax wealth.

A tiny, targeted levy on the absolute highest tier of assets fundamentally rewires the economy.

2%

2% Annual Tax

On Net Wealth > £10 Million

= £24 Billion Annually

Enough to fund public infrastructure, clear NHS backlogs, and rebuild the safety net.

Don't Panic. It's Not You.

This is not a tax on the middle class, professionals, or small business owners.

If you are reading this, your money is safe.

Myth: 'They Will Just Leave!'

Opponents claim a wealth tax will cause billionaires to flee the UK. The empirical data proves this is a bluff.

| | |
|---|---|
| The Threat: | The "Millionaire Exodus" — the wealthy will uproot their lives and businesses. |
| The Reality: | Data from Scandinavia shows only 0.01% of the wealthiest households actually relocate due to wealth taxes. |
| The Reason: | Place, culture, and business networks matter. Furthermore, physical UK assets (prime real estate, land, infrastructure) cannot be moved and remain fully taxable. |

Myth: 'They Are Asset Rich, Cash Poor!'

Critics argue a wealth tax forces wealthy individuals to sell off businesses or mansions if they lack the liquid cash to pay HMRC.

The Fix: Statutory Deferral.

If a billionaire genuinely lacks cash, the tax liability is simply locked (deferred) until the asset is eventually sold or liquidated.

No forced sales. No disrupted
No forced salvinolated businesses. No excuses.

The Alternative Is Collapse

Extreme inequality is not a force of nature. It is a political choice. If we refuse to tax wealth, the burden will fall entirely on working people, leading to hollowed-out public services, extreme poverty, and the end of the middle class.

> "A democratic society that taxes nurses at 50% and billionaires at 1% cannot survive. When families are forced to make impossible choices while the ultra-wealthy thrive, turning to radical political alternatives is a symptom of a deeper pain."
>
> — Gabriel Zucman, International Tax Observatory

Where The Numbers Come From

(Don't take our word for it. Check the math.)

£30.3m daily increase / £11bn total: Oxfam GB / Forbes Billionaire Data

Wealth disparity & poverty stats: Office for National Statistics (ONS), Joseph Rowntree Foundation

Wealth Tax revenue & mechanics: Wealth Tax Commission, Tax Justice UK, Patriotic Millionaires UK

Migration / Capital Flight data: National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER), Tax Policy Associates

Economic frameworks: GarysEconomics (Gary Stevenson), Gabriel Zucman (International Tax Observatory)